

Split Rock Investigations is committed to ensuring that your privacy is protected. This Privacy Policy is intended to describe the information we collect, how it may be used, and with whom it may be shared.

We recommend that you read this Privacy Policy carefully when using our website or services or when transacting business with us. By using our website, you are accepting the Terms and Conditions and this Privacy Policy.

Split Rock Investigations collects the information you enter through our website, such as your name, email address, the reason for inquiring, and answers to questions that may be posed in our “contact us” forms. If you choose to contact us via web e-mail by completing the contact form on our website, your message is automatically forwarded to Split Rock Investigations. We retain the information you provide us.

Split Rock Investigations keeps confidential and does not share your communications with us about potential assistance or to seek advice using this website with third parties. Split Rock Investigations will treat these communications as subject to protection in accordance with the privileges that attach to communications seeking investigative assistance. Communications from you to us are not sufficient to create an investigator-client relationship but we will still treat them as confidential and in accordance with the privilege that attaches to communications with an investigator seeking investigative service and/or advice.

By submitting your contact information when communicating with us about potential investigative assistance or to seek advice, you agree that Split Rock Investigations may contact you using the information you submit. By providing your phone number, you consent to receive calls and text messages from Split Rock Investigations regarding your inquiry.